EACH PLAYER GIRL DYING IN RECEIVES $3,951.80 MISTERY

The champion Red Sox returned to Boston today, and this afternoon went out to Fenway Park to get their World Series money. It was announced that twenty-two of the World's Champions would share $86,939.73, each player receiving $3,951.80.

Manager Bill Carrigan received the check for the total players' money from Secretary Bruce of the National Commission today. The check was signed by Bruce and made out to Carrigan.

After Manager Carrigan had divided the $86,939.73 by 22, he announced that there was a remainder of 13 cents.

DECIDE TO FRAME IT. "I guess we'll frame that 13 cents and keep it hanging up as a lucky sign for the 1916 world's pennant," said Carrigan.

Most of the players, after receiving their checks, planned to get away to their homes at once. "This was on their part led to urgent requests that Mayor Curley, Congressman Sullivan and others who proposed big receptions and banquets for the "champs" call them all off in order to permit the players to leave as soon as possible for their homes."

AMERICAN PARTY HOME. The Massachusetts Women's Suffrage Association had sent a letter to the members of the victorious team suggesting that they take part in the "Victory Banquet" Saturday.

prospective jurors to try William Rockefeller and the other millionaires directors of the New Haven Railroad for conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust law were in the box when Judge Hunt in the United States Court ordered a recess for lunch at 1:05 this afternoon.

Up to this morning only three men had been named as witnesses. They were David M. Flanagan, Max Hartman and Arthur B. Weider, all subjects to prearranged challenges later.

The examination of Charles E. Glendon, which was in progress yesterday, was completely paralyzed. He is completely paralyzed. Mrs. P. O'Brien, mother of Miss Walker, living at No. 13 Palford road, Lynn, said today that she would insist on a police investigation of the circumstances causing her daughter's injuries.

According to the hospital authorities, Miss Walker was brought to the hospital in an automobile at midnight Tuesday by two men and a woman, who said the girl had fallen from a ladder in a Marlborough garage.

The girl's mother said today: "From what I have been told, Nellie and a girl whom we visited in an automobile Tuesday afternoon with two men."

"They arrived at a Marlborough garage late that night, and one of the men dared the girl to climb a ladder, the girl climbed to the top of the ladder, and my Nellie had just reached the twentieth round when she slipped and fell to the cement floor of the garage."

"The man, one of whom I know, picked Nellie up and rushed her to the Lynn hospital, where they requested that the accident be kept quiet."

"Nellie's father is very pretty and was a business success."

Declares Dudley Street Station Beyond Patience

Former Mayor Fitzgerald told the Public Service Commission what he thought of the Dudley street terminal today, in connection with the hearing on the proposal for a "loop" at Esplanade square, to relieve the Dudley street conditions.

Dudley street has gone beyond human patience and endurance," he said. "Conditions have become so bad that Dorchester men will not allow members of their families to travel during rush hours."

Solomon Lewenberg, representing the Harvard Improvement Association, said the "loop" would serve as a temporary relief, but that what was needed was a subway by way of Washington and Dudley streets and on to Grove Hall.

John Malone spoke in favor of the Esplanade plan, which was opposed by E. H. Buffington, secretary of the Revere Board of Trade. Thomas F. Hurley of the Revere State Improvement Association opposed the establishing of a permanent zone on the ground that it would depreciate property values in the vicinity.

ZEPPELIN BOMBS HURT 101

By PERCY THOMAS. International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Heavier loss of life than had been supposed was caused by the Zeppelin raids on Wednesday. The Admiralty officially announced today that forty-one persons were killed and 101 wounded.

Thirty-two of the forty-one dead were killed in London proper and ninety-five wounded in this city.

Figures given out by the Admiralty show that the raids were the most damaging that have been made over this city since the war began.

Parts of the city were violently shelled and many buildings were damaged or destroyed. Fires were started by the Germans' projectiles. Persons were crushed to death in the destruction of buildings or struck down in the streets.

The War Office is expected to make more drastic precautions for the safeguarding of the city.

It is believed that all the airships escaped, although a heavy fire was directed against them.

The Admiralty announcement, which was issued through the government press bureau, follows: "Forty-one persons were killed and one hundred and one wounded in Wednesday's air raids. Thirty-two were killed and ninety-five injured in this city. One of the airships is believed to have been damaged, according to the following statement from the War Office: "A fleet of hostile airships visited the eastern counties and a part of the London area last night, dropping many bombs. Anti-aircraft guns and royal field artillery attacked the invaders. "One of the airships was seen to keel over on its side and drop to a lower altitude."

General Villa Loses His Last Seaport

MRS. KELLY WILL TRY TO SAVE EUGENIA

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Edward Kelly, whose daughter, Eugenia, and "Al" Davis, alleged dancer, deft her, has asked Deputy Assistant District Attorney Rider whether Davis should be arrested or Eugenia sent to an institution.

Mrs. Kelly said: "Mrs. Kelly came to ask my advice. The matter is still in abeyance."
"I consulted District Attorney Perkins. I must save Eugenia from that man Davis. He will go to the devil if I do not. Davis is to blame. He is after her money. At present I am powerless. She walks right out of my apartment in the morning and does not return till late at night. I do not know where she goes. I owe it to my daughter to appeal to the courts to save her."

These threats are being considered by Mrs. Kelly to keep her daughter away from Davis.
The first course is to ask to have Miss Kelly committed to Bellevue for observation. The second is to ask a magistrate to commit the girl to an institution for observation. The third is to ask the arrest of Davis on a charge of taking Miss Kelly to questionable resorts.

Davis and Miss Kelly were found at the Hotel Traymore. Both laughed, and Davis was quoted as saying, "We will soon be married."

the office of her attorney, No. 239 Broadway.

She told a detailed story of the alleged wooing by the president of the International Press Forum and said that letters from Dr. Hill expressing affection for her would be introduced in evidence at the trial.

Miss Covington, who is an attractive, dark-haired woman, declined to discuss her suit.

She said that she was not alarmed by statements intimating that her actions prior to filing the suit made her amenable to prosecution.

"I am here for a fight to a finish," said Miss Covington. "There will be no compromise, because the suit has reached the point where it must be decided by a jury of twelve men and not by friends of mine nor of Dr. Hill."

Her attorney advised her to say nothing about the letters which will figure in the suit, because they form an important part of my case and will not be read until they are entered on the court record.

"Dr. Hill made love to me and asked me repeatedly to be his wife. I loved him, because he is a man of great charm, a pleasant personality and a great deal of force. He kept me for a long time, and I was not aware of having three children when he wanted me to care for them. He said during one of his proposals: 'You are the one woman of intellectual force with whom I have come in contact.'"

"He also told me he had met a number of women with brains, but that none of them combined intellectual, personal magnetism and domestic habits. He said: 'I want you to share my fortune and be a helping hand to me. We have tasks in common and are congenial. We agree as two other women I have met could agree with me.'"

"Dr. Hill paid me the compliment of adding: 'And just what I have said to you is the fact that I know some of the best women of the country. You have a truly sympathetic nature. Your sphere is the home and not the stage.'"

PHILLIES-SOX MAY NOT GO ON TOUR

ST. FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—(Times) A proposition made by Harry Barry, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, to play a series of exhibition games here between the world champions Red Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics, which would be played between October 25 and 28, has been rejected by the Red Sox.

Barry said today that he would not make any guarantee whatever, but would like the visiting ball clubs to wear some of all-time Red Sox uniforms, which has a seating capacity of 15,000.

Dollar Diplomacy, Once Scorned, Now Approved by the Administration

THE determination of the Administration to recognize the Carranza faction of the internal conflict in Mexico is quite in accord with the kaleidoscopic inconsistency which has characterized the Democratic party since its accession to power.

Not long ago the promising program was to unite all warring factions of Mexico in a peace conference. At that conference a plan of pacification was to be formulated. Any faction so obdurate and unreasonable as to refuse to participate was to be looked upon henceforth as OUTSIDE THE PALE OF RECOGNITION.

Carranza was exactly thus obdurate and unreasonable. He was the only Mexican leader to flout the conference. TODAY HE IS THE ONE CHOSEN FOR RECOGNITION.

Then the plausible plan of joining the South American Republics with the United States in settlement of Mexican affairs was adopted. It was announced that the faction which, on October 9, was prepared to administer the affairs of Mexico in an orderly and efficient manner, to establish civil government, to put down armed and factious opposition, to protect the lives and property of citizens of other countries resident in Mexico, should be recognized.

Carranza has never done any of these things. There is absolutely no certainty that he will be able to do them. But Carranza is recognized.

No one will dispute the desirability of taking SOME steps to restore order in Mexico; but there is profound doubt whether it is for the best interests of this country to take sides in an internal factional Mexican fight.

Particularly is such action of doubtful wisdom when there seems to be back of it some financial scheme, some plan of promotion and exploitation, which is expected to inure to the benefit of certain big bankers and friends of the incumbent Administration.

Not long ago the Democratic Administration had a great deal to say in opposition to "dollar diplomacy."

That hostility to dollar diplomacy seems to depend chiefly on WHO GETS THE DOLLAR.

If the dollar goes to friends and favorites of a Republican Administration dollar diplomacy excites the opposition and condemnation of all Democratic politicians. But if the dollar drifts in the direction of friends and connections of a Democratic Administration dollar diplomacy takes on a new and beneficent aspect.

There seems to be an obverse and a reverse to the policy of this Democratic Administration on almost every item in the program of national legislation.

If you don't like one side of the medal, look upon the other and be satisfied.

Nothing in the world of politics can be turned so quickly to suit the purpose of the Administration or to meet the fluctuations of public opinion as the contradictory faces of the Democratic medal.

The whirling Dervishes of the Orient, who amaze tourists by their agility in facing every point of the compass in a fraction of a second, afford the only fit parallel to the Administration's alacrity in turning upon its own record.

The Democratic national platform declared for free passage of American coastwise ships through the Panama Canal. Mr. Wilson, in public speeches, warmly applauded and definitely indorsed that doctrine. But President Wilson, once in office, forced legislation through Congress which took away from American ships their special rights in a canal built with American money. At a stroke he crippled the canal's efficiency as an encouragement to American shipping and a competitor of our transcontinental railroads.

The Democratic national platform declared in favor of protection of American life and property impartially throughout the world, but the Democratic national Administration, while it properly protects American life and property in one part of the globe, improperly and callously neglects its protection in another, according to the whims and fancies, the preferences and prejudices of its leaders.

The Democratic platform pledged its candidates to the principle of single term for Presidents. But every endeavor of EVERY MEMBER OF THE ADMINISTRATION, from its head down, is being exerted to secure a second term with four more years of power.

At the outset of the war this Administration proclaimed its neutrality and its distinct opposition to any making of loans TO EITHER OF THE BELLIGERENTS. "It is inconsistent with the support of neutrality," wrote Mr. Bryan in a formal proclamation of the Administration's attitude, "for a neutral nation to make loans to belligerent nations, for MONEY IS THE WORST OF CONTRABAND."

And in enlarging upon this absolute truth the ex-Secretary of State said that the President "blazes a new way when, without conference with other nations and without support from conventions, he commits this nation to his policy."

The people accepted loyally the President's policy. The manner in which they are now refusing to support the loan to the allies sufficiently shows that. But the President was unable to tread the new path he had blazed. The policy to which he committed the nation he himself abandoned. With his acquiescence the national banks, the Federal reserve banks, AN INTEGRAL PART OF THE NATIONAL ORGANIZATION, are participating in the loan. "The worst form of contraband" is being furnished to certain of the belligerents, not by individuals alone, but by GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES.

We would not intervene in Mexico when intervention meant the maintenance of American honor and the safeguarding of American lives. But we are now holding Hayti like a conquered province.

Toward German aggressions and German affronts we turned a lowering and a menacing front. Our diplomatic notes bristled with such un diplomatic expressions as "distinctly unfriendly act," and such menaces as "will omit no word or deed."

Our State Department went to the length of demanding that all submarine warfare against hostile commerce be abandoned by Germany.

But England seizes our ships, confiscates our cargoes on neutral ships, causes losses of millions and hundred of millions to our shippers, blocks the way to the re-establishment of our merchant marine and treats us as a vassal nation. How does the Administration respond?

By promising our aggrieved citizens that after a while some sort of a vote will be sent to England, and in the meantime ADDING BRITISH FINANCIERS TO BORROW HALF A BILLION IN OUR MARKET ON DUBIOUS SECURITIES.

That is dollar diplomacy of a new sort, to lend American dollars to further the operations of a nation which systematically preys upon American commerce.

WALL STREET may profit by the loan which the people are evidently determined to leave upon its hands. WALL STREET, at the bottom of the Carranza recognition, may profit by the reversal of the Administration's policy in Mexico. WALL STREET, involved with the transcontinental roads, profited by the denial of the canal to free use by American ships.

But it is clear that an Administration thus doing the work of speculators, financiers and big business in all quarters of the world must abandon its unbecoming pretence of hostility to "dollar diplomacy."

That diplomacy is practising assiduously and hungrily. But it is no master of the art. Its methods are crude, and its eagerness in the interest of factions allied with it in international spoliation menaces that sane and safe aloofness from war in Europe and revolutionary partnership in Mexico which the people earnestly desire to maintain.

A Poem from the Past

A Contributor Gives His Views on European War and Quotes from Harper's Weekly of 1863

By George T. Seelye

TO THE EDITOR OF THE AMERICAN:
SIR—It is difficult to find an American newspaper nowadays. Nearly all of the American newspapers are so violently pro-British in this war that they forget the requirements of neutrality, the interests of their own country and the history of our previous experience with foreign nations.

I send this poem to the AMERICAN because I know that it keeps the interests of its own country primarily in mind, and that, while it may publish communications of a pro-British and pro-German character, and open its news columns to the discussion of both sides of this European conflict, it maintains a genuine and consistently pro-American attitude in its editorial policy.

Certainly, Harper's Weekly on May 8, 1863, in the midst of the distressing period of the Civil War, can be and must be considered an American newspaper, a Union newspaper, with the best interests of the United Nation closely at heart. The verses were entitled "We Will Remember." But, in view of our recent bias to England, and our attitude of indifference toward England's unlawful interference with our commerce and confederation of our cargoes, I wonder if we really do remember?

Have we not, rather, in the excitement of this war, forgotten England's attitude of continuous hostility toward this country of ours in the past, and Germany's attitude of consistent friendship?

Have we not forgotten the Revolutionary War and England's policy of employing savage Indians to kill the colonists of her own blood, just as she is today employing the cruel East Indians to inflict their barbarities upon another white race in Europe?

Have we not forgotten the War of 1812 and the insults and indignities which compelled it?

Have we not forgotten the outrageous burning of the Capitol and the White House at Washington, an act surpassing in wanton insult and injury, in needless vandalism and barbarity any of the much-mooted acts of destruction in this European war?

Finally, have we not forgotten the attitude of England during our war of the rebellion, how England sided the South, in every underhanded way, how she sought in this manner to divide this country and weaken its place and its power among nations?

Have we not forgotten how England allowed the fitting of Confederate privateers in her ports to prey upon and destroy the commerce of the United States which had become a rival of her own?

Have we not forgotten how England shipped arms and ammunition to the South, and so became responsible for the murder of so many thousand loyal Federal Americans in this unhappy war?

Let those who have forgotten read this poem, published in Harper's Weekly on May 8, 1863, entitled "We Will Remember."

GEORGE T. SEELYE.
New York City, October 12, 1915.

WE will remember it—England's "neutrality"—

We who have witnessed her cowardly craft:

Friendly in seeming, a foe in reality.

Wiping her eyes, while she inwardly laughed.

We will remember when 'round us were lying

Thousands of gallant men, wounded and dead.

Rebels on all sides our pathway defying—

"Down with our Rival" was all England said.

We will remember her sham aristocracy,

Cheerful and jubilant over our fall;

Helping when treason would stifle democracy,

Turning a deaf ear to Liberty's call.

We will remember, with lasting emotion,

When her starved workmen were gasping for breath,

While stores of grain WE sent over the ocean.

Her Ships Came Laden with WEAPONS OF DEATH!

We will remember the KEOKUK sinking,

Riddled with balls "neutral England" had sent;

We will remember her laughing and winking,

Feasting arch-traitors on board of the TRENT.

We will remember it when we are stronger;

When once again we stand saved and erect

Her neutral mask shall shield England no longer.

By her foul deeds she'll know WHAT TO EXPECT!

"Let Us Have Peace"

The Peabody, Peabody Square, Dorchester, Mass.
October 12, 1915.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—Your editorial, "Let Us Have Peace," in the Boston AMERICAN of October 11 is the best editorial I have ever read.

It establishes a record in United States Journalism. I have mentioned it to several discriminating people and found that it made the same profound impression on them. There will be a great demand for this editorial, for it deserves to rank with Lincoln's Gettysburg speech.

Every intelligent man and woman should read it, and that they might have the opportunity permit me to suggest that you publish it again in a few days and announce in the preceding editions that this famous editorial is to be reprinted by request. I should like to purchase at least one hundred copies to distribute. You have done the country a great honor and a high service in giving an adequate expression to our spirit and ideals in these solemn and tragic days. Cordially yours.
